Congratulations Greensmart,

Greensmart Homes received recognition for their use of innovative technology at the Sci-Tech North "Excellence in Innovation" 2006 award ceremonies. Nominations were considered from all the communities of the Peace, Liard and Stikine regions. Greensmart Homes, nominated in two of the six designated categories, won the Innovation at Work award. The criteria for consideration were that the company use innovative processes, systems or procedures in the development of product.

Sci-Tech North would like to extend congratulations to you on your win. The award is a significant recognition of your effective use of technology and applauds your commitment to energy efficient fabrication and awareness of environmental issues in construction management.

Sci-Tech North offers support for individuals and organizations that are interested in researching or applying innovative science and technology. We act as an education and information service, a referral agency, and a venue for research aimed at identifying science and technology opportunities.

Sci-Tech North shares Greensmart Homes commitment to environmental and community responsibility and encourages continued adoption and adaptation of relevant technology.

Sincerely,

Lori Ackerman
Executive Director
Sci-Tech North
